Have you ever had an apple? How about a banana? Both of these fruits are easily found in the United States.

Have you ever had a durian? This is a fruit that isn't often found in the U.S. This kind of fruit grows in some warm countries in the eastern half of the world.

Durians are big fruits. They are about the size of a football. They are brownish green and hard on the outside. And they are covered with spikes!

On the inside, the fruit is yellow-ish white. It feels creamy. And it tastes a little sweet. But the fruit doesn't smell sweet... it smells very, very strongly. Some people don't mind the smell. But many people do. In fact, some places don't allow durians in because of their strong smell!

¿Alguna vez has tenido una manzana? ¿Qué tal un plátano? Ambas frutas se encuentran fácilmente en los Estados Unidos.

¿Alguna vez has tenido un durian? Esta es una fruta que no se encuentra a menudo en los Estados Unidos. Este tipo de fruta crece en algunos países cálidos en la mitad oriental del mundo.

Durians son grandes frutas. Son del tamaño de un balón de fútbol. Son de color verde pardusco y duro en el exterior. ¡Y están cubiertos de púas!

En el interior, la fruta es de color amarillo-blanco. Se siente cremoso. Y sabe un poco dulce. Pero la fruta no huele dulce... huele muy fuerte. Algunas personas no les importa el olor. Pero muchas personas lo hacen. De hecho, ¡algunos lugares no permiten a los durianos entrar debido a su fuerte olor!
